

Developing Capacities, Improving Training: the Role of International Cooperation

ROGÉRIO CAMPOS, PH.D

PROFESSOR OF WATER RESOURCES AT UNINTA - BRAZIL

This Presentation

- On the Importance of Developing Capacities in Water Resources;
- Tools for Internationally Cooperated Capacity Building in Water Resources;
- International Cooperation for Developing Capacity in Water Resources.

On the Importance of Developing Capacities with International Cooperation in WR

- Interchange of water cultures;
- Interchange of knowledges;
- Possibility to catch the “best” specialists in the World;

Tools for Internationally Cooperated Capacity Building in Water Resources

- Distance Learning Tools;
- Virtual Laboratories;
- Information Communication Technologies;
- Communities of Practice;
- Presential.

International Cooperation for Developing Capacity in Water Resources

“By 2030, expand international cooperation and capacity-building support to developing countries in water- and sanitation-related activities and programmes, including water harvesting, desalination, water efficiency, wastewater treatment, recycling and reuse technologies”

— 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development (UN)

International Cooperation for Developing Capacity in Water Resources

- Networks of scientific and/or academic institutions;
- Personal voluntary collaboration;
- Network of institutions to receive training;
- Professionals/Personnel target;
- Agreements between institutions or countries;
- Language?

Thank You – Merci

Rogério.Campos@uninta.edu.br

+55 85 98848-0466

UNINTA

9TH WORLD WATER
FORUM | DAKAR 2022